

EQUINOX WEAVERS ON STRIKE.

Entire Plant Will Be Closed Until Some Settlement Is Made.

Anderson, Jan. 27.—One hundred weavers of the Equinox Mill walked out to-day and the weaving room machinery is idle. On Monday morning a cut of 10 per cent in wages became effective. Half of the weavers refused to go to work. This morning all weavers returned to their looms, saying that they had received word from the superintendent that the mill management would meet the weavers half way in the cut of wages, and that notice to this effect would be posted in the mill this morning. Because notice was not posted, the striking weavers walked out. Some weavers who stuck at their looms during the entire trouble were forced to leave under intimidation. Belts were slipped and there were some threats uttered. The management declares that no promise of a concession was implied or expressed, and they will not recede from their former action.

The closing down of the weaving room machinery will automatically close down other departments in 24 hours, and unless some agreement is reached 400 employees will be thrown out of employment by to-morrow night. The strikers declare they intend no vicious act, but they say that the machinery will be idle, as they will admit no "scabs" until the management of the mill restores the former wage schedule. A closing down of the mill, which manufactures army duck, will probably result.

Entire Mill Closes Down.

(Daily Mail, 28th.)
The Equinox Mill has closed down. The machinery was started up at 6.30 o'clock this morning and was run for about 15 minutes, an opportunity being given the weavers to return to their looms. When the weavers remained away from their posts and when the management realized that the strikers were determined to remain out, the machinery in every department of the mill was ordered closed down.

The closing of the Equinox Mill throws out of employment between 350 and 400 persons, and cuts off the dependence of about 300 more.

There have been no acts of violence and the striking weavers still maintain their good natured demeanor. They declare that they are going to stand firm and that they will not return to their looms until the mill management makes some concession in the cut of wages, which became effective Monday morning. The mill management is standing pat, and it is understood that there will be no proposals from that quarter.

Rumors were afloat in the city this morning that some of the strikers had committed acts of violence; that the negro firemen had been accosted and that hands had been laid upon them. There were no such acts committed, although it is said that the firemen were warned not to fire up the boilers this morning. The boilers were fired as usual, however, and the firemen have not been harmed, and no effort has been made to harm them.

No notices have been posted by the mill management, and no committees have been named by the strikers or other employees to wait on the management to effect a settlement of the differences that now exist. Neither side has made a move, and no one cares to make any announcement of any plans to be followed later.

The strike is confined entirely to the weaving room, although the cut in wages affects all departments of the mill. It is explained that the highest priced men are employed in the weaving room and that the cut in wages is probably felt more there than in any of the other departments. The mill management has made no effort to get weavers to take the places of the strikers. Superintendent Hunter employed a few new men on Monday, these men coming from the neighboring mills. There has been no talk whatever of bringing in weavers from other sections.

The closing down of all the machinery in the Equinox Mill is caused by the strike in the weaving room. All departments of a mill are dependent on each other, and the spinning and carding rooms cannot operate unless the weaving room machinery is running. All departments are automatically closed down because of the idleness of the weaving room machinery.

OUR BIRDS.

Audubon societies are the embodiment of the great nation-wide movement for bird protection. There are 38 State societies and one national association. These societies are named in honor of James John Audubon, the great painter-naturalist. He lived in the first half of the 18th century, and did more to teach Americans about the birds of their own country than any man who ever lived. As far back as 1883 an awakening interest in the decrease of bird life and the need for its protection called forth a comment from the magazine, "Forest and Stream." In 1885 the State of New Jersey placed upon her statute books what was, perhaps, the first comprehensive bird law ever passed.

The first Audubon society in the country was organized in 1886, and from the very beginning the cause which it represents has enlisted the co-operation and attracted the support of the highest types of men and women in the country. Among the first to commend the movement were Henry Ward Beecher, John G. Whittier, Bishop Henry Potter, Oliver Wendell Holmes and Charles Dudley Warner.

The South Carolina Audubon Society was organized in 1900. It has already done a great work in this State in calling to the attention of the public the economic value of birds. It has proposed most of the State laws for the protection of game and non-game birds.

This work of spreading broadcast the most reliable information concerning the habits and the good which birds do in the woods and fields the society hopes to continue until it has become the common property of every man and woman in the State.

Dr. E. W. Forbush, State ornithologist of Massachusetts, says that "an acquaintance with the useful birds of the farm is as important to the farmer as is a knowledge of the insect pests which attack his crops."

The United States Bureau of Biological Survey reports that two of the most useful birds on the farm are the dove and the partridge. The dove is the champion weed seed-eater, and the bureau advises its protection in every way possible. The partridge is, perhaps, the best all-round bird on the farm, as he eats both weed seed and insects.

Women Freed Under Unwritten Law.

New Albany, Miss., Jan. 27.—Two women were freed under the "unwritten law" here to-day when they were acquitted of the charge of first degree murder. Mrs. Ruth Berthay, aged 27, was found not guilty of murder in slaying R. A. McWhorter, aged 60, when he is alleged to have attempted to attack her in her home, near here, in March, 1913. Mrs. Gertrude Stone, aged 35, was charged with the murder of W. S. King, a real estate agent, at her home in August, 1913.

According to the testimony, King entered her room while she was in negligee attire. She ordered him out and demanded an apology. When King applied an epithet to her and advanced in a threatening manner, she shot him.

Both women heard the verdicts with composure and there were no demonstrations in court.

"TIZ" EASES TIRED, SORE, SWOLLEN FEET.

Nothing Like "TIZ" for Aching, Sore, Swollen Feet and Corns—"TIZ" is Glorious!

Why go limping around with aching, puffed-up feet—feet so tired, chafed, sore and swollen you can hardly get your shoes on or off? Why don't you get a 25-cent box of "TIZ" from the drug store now and glad-ly your tortured feet?

"TIZ" makes your feet glow with comfort; takes down swellings and draws the soreness and misery right out of feet that chafe, smart and burn. "TIZ" instantly stops pain in corns, callouses and bunions. "TIZ" is glorious for tired, aching, sore feet. No more shoe tightness—no more foot torture.—Adv.

Peach Tree Borers.

(Progressive Farmer.)

"Please tell me how to cure peach trees of the borers. I have some fine peach trees that will soon be killed if something is not done for them." You cannot "cure" trees of borers, but you can cut them out. You say the trees will soon be killed if something is not done, and you simply let the borers bore, and of course they will kill the trees. Clean away the gum and follow up the borers and dig them out. Go over the trees frequently spring and fall and when gum is seen at the base clean the borer out. Something can be done by painting the base of the tree a foot or more up with white lead and oil, but watching the trees and taking out the borers is essential. Simply letting them bore and begging for a remedy will never get them out.

"CHL" NOLAND IS REAL GOOD.

Wrote Letter as Four Other Prisoners Made their Escape.

Yorkville, Jan. 28.—Although four men escaped from the York county jail this afternoon, the fifth white man in the prison refused to take part in the affair and remained in his cell, while his companions made a successful dash for liberty.

The fifth man was Thomas Noland, alias "Chicago Noland," famous in many States as a yeggman and an alleged expert at blowing safes and slipping through jail bars. Noland was recently paroled by Governor Bleasue while serving a term in the South Carolina penitentiary and was at once turned over to Federal authorities to answer to other charges. He is being held in the York county jail to answer to the charge of robbing a bank at Port Mill in 1903. Noland said he didn't want to go and calmly watched the other four prisoners break jail and make a getaway. When the jail delivery was discovered and a hurried investigation made, Noland was found in his cell writing a letter.

The four men escaping were: Jesse Willman, S. I. Rush, J. R. Wyatt and Sam Harper. They were being held on minor charges. Willman and Rush have been captured and are again in jail.

The theory for the escape is that when the men were fed the inner cell door was left unlocked. Leaning against it later one of the prisoners found the door unsecured. An iron rod is said to have been secured from the bed and this was used to make an opening in an outside door. Slipping downstairs, a window offered an outlet and the men were soon gone, while Noland continued his letter.

Neighbors gave the alarm, crying to officers that the prisoners were escaping. Deputy Sheriff Quinn and a posse at once instituted a pursuit and Willman and Rush were taken about two miles from town. The officers met Rush returning to Yorkville. He said he was on his way to surrender, volunteering the information that he was "tired and disgusted with the whole thing." The other two are still at large.

Some negro prisoners were incarcerated in the jail, but they were on the other side, no door being open for them to find an outlet.

OLIVER P. COLE IS DEAD.

Was One of the Oldest Citizens of Anderson County.

(Anderson Mail, 28th.)

Oliver P. Cole, who lived near Townville, died at his home Tuesday night at 2 o'clock. Mr. Cole was probably the oldest citizen of Anderson county, being about a hundred years old. When the war between the States began, Mr. Cole was unable to enlist on account of his age, but he was allowed to enter near the end of the war, when the Confederate government called out even the old men for service. Three of his sons also served in the Southern army.

Mr. Cole reared a family of four sons and five daughters, several of whom preceded their father in death. In life Oliver P. Cole was revered as a good man, strictly honest—a man whose gray hairs were for a crown of glory.

The large crowd present at the funeral, which was held at 11 o'clock Wednesday at Double Springs Baptist church, where Mr. Cole was for 50 years a member, attested the esteem with which Mr. Cole was held.

Three Filipino Leaders Hanged.

Manila, P. I., Jan. 27.—Gen. Noriel, the Filipino leader, and two other men who were convicted with him of a political murder in 1912, were hanged early to-day. Friends of Noriel, including Aguinaldo, had made strong efforts to prevent the triple execution, but the American Governor General, Francis Burton Harrison, ordered it to proceed.
